7. The consultant shall provide a plan which identifies the City's underlying principles on which decisions should be made, including specific goals, objectives and action items or benchmarks to be achieved.
8. The consultant shall include a work plan based on internal and external participation, focus groups and/or workshops and surveys to accomplish the end deliverables.
9. The consultant will produce a draft and participate in a review and refinement of this document. The consultant will then produce a final product that includes all minimum elements outlined in the scope of services, related implementation recommendations and possible incentive and funding strategies to accelerate catalytic activity. The content shall be concise, goal driven and structured within a timeline.

10. The final strategic plan document shall be presented and accepted by the City Commission.
